

Legal notice

The National Agency for Research and Development (NARD) cannot be held liable for mistakes in editorial or technical aspects, nor for omissions, or correctness of the content.

In particular, NARD does not guarantee completeness or correctness of the information contained in external websites which can be accessed via links from the Horizon Europe Moldova website. Despite accurate research on the content of such linked external websites, NARD, cannot be held liable for their content. Only the content providers of such external sites are liable for their content. Should you notice any mistake in the technical or editorial aspects of the Ideal-ist site, please do not hesitate to inform us.

Personal data privacy: By accessing the Horizon Europe Moldova website, certain information about users, such as internet protocol (IP) addresses, records of navigation through the site, software used, and time spent, as well as similar information, will be stored on servers. This information will not specifically identify users, and the information will be used internally for website traffic analysis only. If users provide unique identifying information, such as name, address, or other information on forms stored on this site, this information will be used for statistical purposes only and will not be published or made available for general access. NARD do not sell nor rent website users' names, addresses, email addresses or other personal information.

Images and video – terms and conditions of use for images and videos are granted as follows: Images of the NARD website may be used for personal information or educational purposes. Commercial use is subject to permission by the publisher. Certain images (photos) and videos on the NARD web portal originate from other sources. If you wish to use these images or videos, please contact the copyright holder. Should you have any questions regarding these terms and conditions please contact us.