

European Convergence Summit (ECS) 2025

The ECS is a one-day in-person event bringing together all of those interested in European public policies. The expected outcome of this day is a consensus among the specialists present on the directions of research in AI, robotics and big data innovation for Europe.

The ECS should allow for cross-sectional views from, among others, representatives of industry, research and innovation, civil society, legal, ethical, regulatory and public policy experts. The message developed at the end of the ECS should create a set of aims to emerge on the acceptable directions for research and innovation in AI, robotics and big data. It would be a matter of defining a point of view which will then be taken up by the ADR partnership.
