Beneficiaries of Horizon Europe and Horizon 2020 funding must carry out activities to increase the impact of their project results by:

- Sharing research results with the scientific community, commercial players, civil society and policymakers (dissemination).
- Using their project results to tackle societal problems, in policymaking or for commercial purposes (exploitation).

Check out the guide on communication, dissemination and exploitationEN•• to understand the differences between these three concepts, and get acquainted with the different European Commission tools that can support your project.
