

Manufacturing Day 2026

Manufacturing Day 2026 aims to address the vital challenge of scaling manufacturing ventures into competitive, resilient, and globally operating companies. The event seeks to bring together key players in the manufacturing industry to explore how to turn promising ideas into competitive, resilient global companies. Discussions will include diverse investment models, policy frameworks, and collaborative approaches that impact the industrial landscape. During this event, EIT Manufacturing is bringing together startups, key industrial players, investors, researchers and experts to celebrate the achievements and potential of the European manufacturing industry.
